

The book was found

Decolonizing Methodologies: Research And Indigenous Peoples By Smith, Linda Tuhiwai 2nd (second) ,Revis Edition [Paperback(2012)]

Synopsis

Will be shipped from US. Used books may not include companion materials, may have some shelf wear, may contain highlighting/notes, may not include CDs or access codes. 100% money back guarantee.

Book Information

Paperback

Publisher: Zed Books; Second Edition,Revis edition (1600)

ASIN: B00BQ1Q3BM

Average Customer Review: 4.5 out of 5 stars 50 customer reviews

Best Sellers Rank: #732,915 in Books (See Top 100 in Books) #73 in Books > Law >

Administrative Law > Indigenous Peoples

Customer Reviews

Will be shipped from US. Used books may not include companion materials, may have some shelf wear, may contain highlighting/notes, may not include CDs or access codes. 100% money back guarantee.

The important message contained in this book has not dated since it was first published. While oriented towards a Māori cultural context, the book is of relevance to those wanting to investigate the topic of indigenous methodologies in pretty well any cultural context. The information in the book is well organised, easily accessible and engaging. The authors writing style is easy to follow, purposeful, confronting and at times delightfully insightful. As an academic and researcher of many years it takes a well written book and thoughtful organisation of ideas to get me past a chapter. Yet I found it difficult to put this book down and after reading it cover to cover, I would read it again and use it as a research aid. Finally, the contents of this book should not be considered relevant to indigenous readers only. I would recommend this book to all citizens and especially those working in government administration, planning, research, education economic and or policy contexts.

This book is amazing! As non american woman trying to figure out how to organise my ideas for research, it has helped a lot! Mostly to understand my own background and think and respect cultures when writing. This is by far my best tool to think about Cultural Studies.

A much needed reference for indigenous peoples across the planet. Affirms are need to write our own histories without the need to get permission from those of colonizing mentalities. Well written, provocative, courageous and freeing!!!

Brilliantly written by a Maori academic and educator who has been around social research for a long time. Congratulations on what was a thought-provoking, well set out, practical, useful and deeply considered book. Seriously amazing! No doubt a fantastic resource for Maori and Aboriginal researchers. Will be recommending to all non-Indigenous researchers as compulsory reading because this challenges every deeply held, colonial belief we have about ourselves and our research. Thank you Professor Tuhiwai Smith.

This is a wordy, academic book. The content is very important and raised some good points, however it was very hard for me to follow. If I wouldn't have had to read it for school, I would definitely not have gotten past page 1.

This book is the ultimate guide and sets the standard for ethical research methods. If one is confused as to which of the now many decolonizing methods books that are now out there today to choose (the majority of which are also WONDERFUL), this is a great one to start with. Relevant in 1998 and relevant now (the fact that its been updated and revised = icing!) I met the author, and not surprisingly, she is a pistol and a great person. Read this one!

Applicable to most parts of the world.

This book had me think about what Decolonizing even meant. Why should we think about decolonizing methodologies? I ended up enjoying and learning more from this book than any others in my methodology course I am taking now. It is written in easy to understand English without too much academic gobbledygook. I would like to hear Linda speak sometime. I do feel she has much to give all of us. I would recommend this book to anyone who wants to understand more about how colonizing has effected our academic world.

Download to continue reading...

Decolonizing Methodologies: Research and Indigenous Peoples by Smith, Linda Tuhiwai 2nd (second) , Revis edition [Paperback(2012)] Decolonizing Methodologies: Research and Indigenous Peoples Decolonizing Museums: Representing Native America in National and Tribal Museums (First Peoples: New Directions in Indigenous Studies (University of North Carolina Press Paperback)) Mobilizing Bolivia's Displaced: Indigenous Politics and the Struggle over Land (First Peoples: New Directions in Indigenous Studies (University of North Carolina Press Paperback)) Queer Indigenous Studies: Critical Interventions in Theory, Politics, and Literature (First Peoples: New Directions in Indigenous Studies) Indigenous Nations' Rights in the Balance: An Analysis of the Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples The Transit of Empire: Indigenous Critiques of Colonialism (First Peoples: New Directions Indigenous) Linda Goodman's Sun Signs by Goodman, Linda New Edition (1999) *OP Werewolf Storytellers Handbook Revis Humanizing Research: Decolonizing Qualitative Inquiry With Youth and Communities Qualitative Research Methodologies for Occupational Science and Therapy Research Methodologies for Beginners Weird Wisconsin: Your Travel Guide to Wisconsin's Local Legends and Best Kept Secrets by Linda S. Godfrey (2012-02-07) The White Possessive: Property, Power, and Indigenous Sovereignty (Indigenous Americas) Righting Canada's Wrongs: Residential Schools: The Devastating Impact on Canada's Indigenous Peoples and the Truth and Reconciliation Commission's Findings and Calls for Action Indigenous Peoples and Globalization: Resistance and Revitalization Science, Colonialism, and Indigenous Peoples: The Cultural Politics of Law and Knowledge Protecting the Arctic: Indigenous Peoples and Cultural Survival (Studies in Environmental Anthropology) The indigenous peoples of Trinidad and Tobago from the first settlers until today Ritual and Remembrance in the Ecuadorian Andes (First Peoples: New Directions in Indigenous Studies)

Contact Us

DMCA

Privacy

FAQ & Help