Customer Reviews

Founded in 1965, the Wingra Woodwind Quintet is ensemble-in-residence at the University of Wisconsin-Madison School of Music. Since its formation, the quintet has established a tradition of artistic and teaching excellence. They have been featured in performance at national conferences of MENC, MTNA, and the International Double Reed Society, as well as at numerous venues throughout the U.S., and have been praised in the New York Times for performances that were "consistently sophisticated, sensitive, and thoroughly vital." They recently released the educational video Developing Woodwind Ensembles.

Nice easy listening. Better than elevator music. Much better. You can simply put it on in the background and go about your work.
